“Jugendpolittag Solothurn”

Teenagers in Switzerland aren't really involved in political debates nowadays. The project “Jugendpolittag Solothurn” helps them to get in touch with political discussion, professionals and politicians. It uses the digitalization for an innovative idea which helps to increase the interest of younger people in politics. Throughout the year, the interested youth is able to post questions or state issues on the projects website www.engage.ch. This is a tool which may be used in public schools to brief the young participants about actual political themes and the political system in Switzerland in general. Students can use this platform to talk to politicians about their stated issues and actualities in political themes. The “Jugendpolittag Solothurn” is an annual debate event in which the stated issues are discussed with both parties: teenagers and politicians.
